

ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE (ESCC)

ESCC 101 Introduction to Environmental Science

An introduction to the causes of environmental problems as well as strategies for potential solutions from both a natural science and a social science perspective. Scientific understanding of the environment is emphasized. The course gives an overview of major environmental problems and scientific principles, with a focus on managing environmental problems and important natural resources. 3 credits.